Foremost-McKesson

Race Bias Case Set For Trial This Month

A class action suit charging the San Francisco based corporate headquarters of Foremost-McKesson, Inc., with racial discrimination against its black office employees is set to go to trial in the U.S. District Court in January 1975.

The suit, filed under the provisions of Title VII of the Federal Civil Rights Act of 1964, was brought by a former Foremost clerk-typist, Augustine Flowers of Oakland.

Ms. Flowers has charged that Foremost-McKesson practiced discrimination against herself and her black co-workers by setting their initial salaries lower than those of non-black employees, giving smaller and less frequent raises to blacks, denying blacks opportunities for advancement, and imposing different working conditions on blacks.

Ms. Flowers stated that an equal employment opportunity report prepared by Foremost-McKesson itself on April 1, 1974, revealed the following tabulations as to black employment at the corporate headquarters in San Francisco.

Of nearly 500 total employees only 23, or four and one-half percent (4 ½ per cent) were black, 18 out of those 23, or three-quarters of all black employees, were employed in the two lowest-paying job categories -- clerical and maintenance.

There were no blacks at all in positions as officers and managers, technicians, and sales workers. These job categories account for nearly 200 of the 500 total jobs.

Ms. Flowers was hired by Foremost Foods Company in July 1972. Her supervisors rated her job performance variously as "above average" and "excellent."

Nevertheless, Ms. Flowers did not receive the customary raise after six months' employment, and after seven months she was "laid off."

Ms. Flowers was selected for the "lay-off" by her departmental supervisor, despite the fact that the work of two white co-workers had been adjudged as sub-standard. In fact, one of the two white women was demoted after Ms. Flowers was laid off.

Ms. Flowers was told she would be recalled as soon as possible, but after several months elapsed and she had not been recalled, she filed a complaint with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission. Shortly thereafter she was recalled.

After talking to many black co-workers, Ms. Flowers decided others had also received discriminatory treatment. Consequently she filed suit in the district court seeking back-pay for herself for the period of her layoff and back pay and other remedies for black class members who could prove they had also been discriminated against.

In October 1974, on the basis of preliminary evidence gathered by Ms. Flowers and her attorney, U.S. District Judge Charles B. Renfrew agreed that the case should be heard as a class action and set a trial date for January 13, 1975.

In August of this year, Foremost-McKesson fired Ms. Flowers, she believes because she filed this suit. That matter will not be decided at the January trial, however, because Ms. Flower's charge of retaliation remains to be investigated by the EEOC.

Ms. Flowers said her attorneys have subpoenaed documents from Foremosts' records that reveal repeated examples of black employees receiving lower starting pay than non-blacks and being passed over for promotions.

In addition she expects that about 15 to 20 of her former co-workers will testify on her behalf as to incidents that occurred and experiences they had at Foremost which appeared to have been the result of racial bias.

Court Rules On Seizure Of Your Bank Records

Law enforcement officers cannot examine or seize bank records of individuals or businesses without a warrant or court process according to unamimous ruling handed down by the State Supreme Court.

The high court said if bank records and statements could be obtained merely by a policeman's telephone call, then other transactions involving savings and loans could be similarly acquired. A person or business dealing with a bank expects all such documents to remain confidential, the court said.

Allowing unrestrained access to bank records "would permit the character and scope and relevency of the material obtained to be determined entirely by the unbridled discretion of the police," the decision noted.

"Such a rule opens the door to a vast and unlimited range of very real abuses of policy power," said the court in the decision written by Justice Stanley Mosk.

The ruling is based on the case of San Bernardino attorney Wesley S. Burrows, who was charged with grand theft. Part of the evidence against him was photo copies of bank records obtained by an investigator without a warrant or court order.

Burrows asked San Bernardino Superior Court to suppress the use of the documents. The Superior Court ruled the bank's statements and records admissible and Burrows petitioned the high court.

The Festival Orchestra of Buenos Aires will appear in concert at the Pacific Grove Junior High School auditorium Friday evening, Janaury 10th, at 8:15 p.m., under auspices of the Monterey Peninsula Concert Association.

Established in 1966, the idea was to create the small classic orchestra of the times of Hadyn and Mozart. Made up of 20 strings, 2 flutes, 2 oboes, 2 clarinets, 2 bassoons, 2 French horns, 2 trumpets and 1 percussionist, it is an ideal chamber orchestra which can project towards the baroque as well as towards romantic and contemporary music.

Pedro Ignacio Calderon has been its music director since the orchestra was formed. He began his musical education under the famous Argentine composers Alberto Ginastero and Luis Gianneo, and in 1963 was awarded a prize that included a contract as Assistant Director of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. He is currently also Music Director of the Buenos Aires Philharmonic Orchestra.

The Festival Orchestra of Buenos Aires has been acclaimed in South America, the United States and Canada, as well as in the Pan-American countries. Musical America has stated the orchestra is distinguished by direct and unpretentious playing, with sincerity of expression in the fore.

Among the leading soloists who have appeared with the orchestra are violinist Henryk Szeryng, pianist Michele Boegner and baritone Herman Prey. Their repertory includes works from Bach through contemporary composers, and of course a number of works by Argentine composers.

Attendance at the concert is limited to members of the association, and to members of similar associations on a space available basis.

Oakland Gets 600 New Jobs

The $1 Billion emergency employment law signed by President Ford last week will open up about 1500 city government jobs in San Francisco and Oakland within a few weeks, according to officials.

Robert Won, coordinator of Mayor Joseph Alioto's manpower office, said San Francisco has been advised it is in line for $7.4 Million. "We figure that will provide 900-1000 jobs," Won said

Oakland expects $4.5 million, enough to provide

The new law sets a pay limit of $10,000 a year. The jobs will be open to persons who have been unemployed for 30 days and who are residents of the city doing the hiring.

Preference will be given to disabled military veterans, welfare recipients, persons from families with income below poverty levels and persons who have been trained in government manpower programs but who have not yet found jobs.

In Oakland, most of the funds will be used for help in the schools, police, streets and redevelopment departments, according to manpower director Juan Lopez. It is expected to take three weeks to fill the jobs.

The emergency fund employees are paid the entry rate for permanent civil service benefits beyond paid holidays and vacations.

Those who get the temporary jobs are given counseling in how to take civil service tests so that they will have a better chance to land permanent jobs when there are openings.

$40 Million Tax Bill Introduced

State Senator Nicholas C. Petris recently introduced legislation to grant additional property tax relief to approximately 320,000 California property taxpayers.

The Petris bill would remove the present age limit of 62 for homeowners before they can qualify for the benefits of senior citizen property tax relief.

Enacted in 1971 as the Gonsalves-Deukmejian-Petris Act. and more commonly known as the Senior Citizen Property Tax Assistance Law, current law provides property tax relief to homeowners with a household income of under two thousand dollars yearly.

The tax relief must be claimed and is based on a sliding scale. Thus, the less income a taxpayer earns, the more property tax relief, the more income up to the $10,000 limit, the less tax relief.

The Act was passed to help elderly homeowners who are hardest hit by rising property taxes because they are on fixed incomes.

The new Petris bill romoves the age requirement for homeowners before they can submit a claim for the generous benefits of this law. Thus, if enacted, this new legislation would allow any California homeowner with a household income under $10,000 to receive property tax relief. The relief, as is presently the case, would be over and above the normal homeowners property tax exemption.

The estimated state-wide cost of this additional property tax relief will be approximately $40 million. The average assistance per family would be about $130 per year. However, persons with extremely low incomes could receive as much as 96 per cent of their property tax bills paid for by the state government.

Petris urged every senior citizen over the age of 62 and with an income under ten thousand dollars to apply for the existing tax relief program. Persons should contact their local Franchise Tax Board for application forms.

Applications for State Graduate Fellowships in 1975-76

Applications for State Graduate Fellowships in 1975-76 must be post-marked and sent to the State Scholarship and Loan Commission, Graduate Fellowship Section, by January 15, 1975.

There will be approximately 800 new fellowships available which will pay up to full tuition and-or fees at any graduate or professional school which is located in California and is accredited by, or is a candidate for accreditation with, the Western Association of Schools and Colleges, or any law school which is accredited by the California State Bar Association.

State Graduate Fellowships are available only to students who will enter their first or their second year of graduate or professional school beginning September 1, 1975.

As a result of the passage of AB 23 in the 1974 session of the Legislature, the Commission will continue to select students of unusual ability and achievement and in addition, give consideration to students with substantial potential for success in graduate school who may come from a disadvantaged background.

All fellowship applicants will be required to submit test scores from either the Graduate Record Examination, the Law School Admission Test, the Dental Admission Test, the Medical College Admission Test, or the Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business depending on the specific academic competition entered. No test scores will be accepted from tests taken after February 8, 1975, and students must request that scores from previous test administrations be sent to the Commission by that date.

Applications are available from the State Scholarship and Loan Commission, 1410 Fifth Street, Sacramento, California 95814, from the graduate and professional school offices, or financial aid offices.

California's Unemployment Rolls Increased by 42,300 Between Nov. and Dec.

California's unemployment rolls increased by 42,300 between Noyember and December (745,300 to 787,600) and the unemployment rate rose from 8.7 percent to 9.0 percent. The increase in unemploymnet continues to show the effects of decreased automobile production, the slowdown in the construction industry and their impact on related industries.

The December 1974 total of 787,600 includes 410,800 receiving unemployment insurance benefits. The balance consists of those not eligible for benefits, such as new jobseekers (mostly school graduates), people re-entering the job market and agricultural workers.

Total employment in December was 8,361,100 -- up 8,400 over last month.

Nonfarm employment increased by 4,800 on a month-to-month comparison. However, this increase was substantially less than would be expected at this time of year. Holiday hiring in trade, services and government were barely able to counter losses in other industries.

Nonfarm employment increased by 79,800 on a year-to-year comparison. However, this increase is somewhat misleading because of the large number of people involved in trade disputes and layoffs due to fuel shortage problems that California was experiencing in December of 1973.

California's rate of 9.0 percent is the highest rate since June 1971, when the rate was 9.1 percent. A year ago, December 1973, total unemployment was 639,600 and the unemployment rate was 7.5 percent.

Western Electric Company Sign Key Concilation Agrement

WASHINGTON, D.C. -- Two thousand women manufacturing employees of the Western Electric Company will receive compensatory payments totaling an estimated $800,000 under the terms of an agreement signed today by the company and the U. S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

The agreement, designed to further realize equal employment opportunity for all applicants and employees of the Western Electric Company, was signed by Commission Chairman John H. Powell, Jr. and Robert Kraay, vice-president of Western Electric's Personnel and Labor division.

The action is a result of the company's recognition that policies and practices existing prior to January 1, 1970, may have restricted hourly-graded women employees in its manufacturing division from certain entry level jobs or delayed their promotion.

It is planned that the $800,000 will be distributed through December 1975 to eligible employees of the company's 23 major manufacturing installations. The payments could be extended, however, until December 1978, if the 2000 women have not received payment before that time. The lump sum payments will range from $200 to $500.

In addition to the one-time payments, Western will establish a "red circle" pay plan which will allow many women manufacturing workers to transfer to a lower-paying job to take advantage of greater opportunities for advancement, while retaining their present basic wage rate.

Kraay said the agreement will benefit women employees who "may have moved up more slowly than men for a variety of reasons." He added that the agreement is "an outgrowth of Western Electric's' ongoing voluntary commitment to effecting equality of job opportunity through its workforce."

Powell said, "This agreement is further evidence of the increasing willingness on the part of employers to help bring about full job equality voluntarily through effective affirmative action. As we observe this year the tenth anniversary of Title VII (the anti-job discrimination law) of the Civil Rights Act of 1964," he continued, "I feel that this agreement is a clear and timely sign of the progress that government and industry are making jointly to eliminate job discrimination."

Consumer Action Dismayed

San Francisco Consumer Action has reacted with dismay to Supervisor Pelosi's announcement of his propose legislation for a Consumer Protection Agency for the City of San Francisco. The introduction of this ordinance revives an old battle. It was fought to a standstill several years ago when SFCA was unable to get a version of a strong and effective bill passed by the Board.

Mr. Pelosi's draft bill appears to be totally ineffective legislation, without any provisions for enforcement powers for the Consumer Commission, nor any powers of intervention in the consumer proceedings of other governmental agencies.

Recent Study Shows

Atlanta

Though much has been done in the past decade to desegrate the South's elementary and high schools, the program is lagging on the campuses of the region's state colleges and universities, according to a recent study.

Most institutions were found to remain 90 to 95 per cent white in a region that is 20 per cent black. Of three dozen or so schools originally set up almost entirely for blacks, at least two dozen are still 90 per cent black.

Whether these racial ratios will change significantly in this decade depends largely upon how well the Department of Health, Education and Welfare carries out an 18-month-old federal court order to cut off government school aid to states that do not fully desegregate their systems of higher education.

John A. Griffin, the executive director of the Southern Education Foundation, describes the federal order as "potentially as far-reaching" as any ruling handed down during the course of the civil rights movement.

Thus far, charged the foundation, an Atlanta-based organization formed in 1937 to help black children obtain better schooling, insufficient progress has been made in carrying out the order.

According to Griffin, the group's analysists spent the past six months studying desegregation proposals that the department had accepted from a number of states last spring. Their conclusion: Many should have been rejected.

Griffin said that few of the proposals had been designed to eliminate admission tests that discriminate by not accounting for cultural differences. Nor, he added, did many plans provide much financial aid or any special courses to encourage recruitment and retention of a segment of students denied equal opportunities to go to college or to remain there once admitted.

He also said that few of the plans "sufficiently cover the matter of locating new programs and new facilities at long-neglected black schools to make such institutions more attractive to both backs and whites."

"we will go well over our goal."

Funston congratulated Pacific Telephone's Communications Workers of America, who contributed an all-time high amount of $12,761, the largest single payroll deduction in the local United Fund's history. This figure is 19 per cent greater than last year's record, established by the same group.

Funston concluded by stressing that the campaign was nearing the end and that he wished everyone a happy holiday season. "I hope that all our neighbors will include a gift to the Fund in their Christmas list, for what better gift is there than a contribution to help our fellow man."

AMERICAN FREEDOM TRAIN

People Get Ready

Freedom Train is Coming

Paul Revere's Saddlebags, George Washington's copy of the Constitution, Gold Miner's tools circa 1850 and Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s vestment robe and bible are among the documents and artifacts that will be displayed on the American Freedom Train when it comes to San Francisco, in November.

Basketball equipment belonging to Bill Russell, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, Bob Cousy and George Mikan will also be displayed on the 22 car train to be pulled by a steam powered locomotive.

The train displaying some of the nation's most treasured artifacts and documents will make a 21-month journey across the U.S. beginning in Wilmington, Delaware on April 1, 1975.

The American Freedom Train was called a "unifying symbol of the heritage that has made America great by President Ford, when he announced the Train's journey last month. It is a major part of the country's Bicentennial Celebration.

The train will be painted red, white and blue, and will be open for public viewing in more than 70 cities, each within an hour's drive for 90 percent of the country's population.

John W. Warner, Administrator of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, recognized the Freedom Train as an official Bicentennial project by presenting a Bicentennial flag and certificate to Jon A. Foust, President of the American Freedom Train Foundation.

President Ford presented George Washington's copy of the Constitution to Donald M. Kendall, Chairman of the Board of PepsiCo, Inc. and Co-Chairman of the National Advisory Board of the American Freedom Train Foundation. The document, is from the National Archives.

Sponsored by the non-profit American Freedom Train Foundation, the train is scheduled to begin its journey in Wilmington, Delaware, the capital of the first state to sign the Constitution. From there, the Freedom Train will journey to Boston, where it will participate in Patriots' Day on April 19, the 200th anniversary of the battle at Lexington.

Mr. Warner described the train as "one of the most significant-- certainly the most visible and national in scope -- of the many projects planned to honor America during the Bicentennial. The launching of the American Freedom Train not only embraces a dramatic summary of 200 years of America's progress and growth, but it represents a symbolic 'birthday gift' to the American people."

Mr. Kendall pointed out that the American Freedom Train was made possible by donations of $4 million over a two-year period from four leaders in the business community: Pepsi-Cola Company, General Motors Corporation, Prudential Insurance Company of America and Kraft Foods. To cover operating cost, another $13 million will be raised from individual donations and the sale of tickets and commemorative gifts. Only quality memorabilia of the Freedom Train will be sold on the train. According to the charter of the Foundation, funds remaining after the train's tour will be donated for charitable purposes.

Mr. Foust said the train will exhibit in 12 specially-designed cars a priceless collection of historical documents, artifacts and memorabilia gathered from leading museums and historical societies across the country. The National Archives, he continued, has agreed to loan a number of documents, among them George Washington's copy of the Constitution, which includes his marginal notes; Benjamin Franklin's draft of The Articles of the Confederation; Pennsylvania's ratification of The Constitution; Delaware's ratification of The Bill of Rights; and credentials of the Pennsylvania delegates to the Continental Congress, including those of Franklin.

Petris Says Ford And Butz Should Be Ashamed

"The spirit of the Holiday Season obviously does not extend beyond the lighting of the traditional White House Christmas tree," said State Senator Nicholas C. Petris (Dem-Oakland).

"The President and the Secretary of Agriculture should be ashamed of their Scrooge-like plan to increase the cost of food stamps for poor and elderly people who are already being forced to steal basic foods or eat pet food in order to survive these hard economic times."

Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz announced in late November the Administration's plan to increase the cost of food stamps in order to save the federal government $650 million dollars, which Butz said would help fight inflation.

"The poor and senior citizens have sacrificed enough. When is Ford going to stop coining slogans and wake-up to the fact that the American people are not callous?

The American people want to end inflation, but not by squeezing a few paltry dollars off the tables of the elderly and poor" Petris stated.

"Particularly galling," Petris added, "was the announcement that Secretary Butz had authorized $150,000 for a plush, new dining room in his suite of offices, so he can eat in elegance and luxury. Is this the example of leadership that Ford wants the rest of us to follow?".

The new price schedule for food stamps for the poor is expected to make the program unfeasible. In some cases, the cost of food stamps will actually be higher than the price of the food on the market's shelves.

WE'RE UNHAPPY ABOUT YOUR PG&E BILL, TOO.

Every winter we point out that "the season's the reason" your PG&E bills go up. That's because during winter months you use more energy for heating, lighting, cooking, TV watching and other home comforts.

But this winter, bills will be even higher because of increased fuel costs. As you may know, most PG&E rate increases have been to offset the higher prices we, PG&E, must pay for natural gas and fuel oil.

We are continuing to work hard to be efficient and hold down your rates as much as possible. You can help hold down your PG&E bill too, by following these energy conservation tips.

Weatherstrip around doors and windows. Insulate walls and ceilings. Clean or replace furnace filters if necessary. Keep fireplace damper closed when not in use. Close drapes at night, and set your thermostat no higher than 68°.

You'll also save energy by turning off lights and the TV when they're not in use. And by not preheating the oven. And tell the kids: "Shut that door!"

Liquor Ad Ban Sought

A group of concerned public health professionals and citizens has called for the abolition of all alcoholic beverage broadcast advertising.

The Citizens for Fairness in Liquor Advertising (CFLA) in addition insisted on strict adherence to federal regulations which control print advertising of alcoholic drinks.

Calling such advertising "misleading," "damaging to young people" and "detrimental to society at large," CFLA representatives asked the liquor industry to comply with the Federal Alcohol Administration Act statutes.

The CFLA panel was composed of Kent Little, alcohol abuse expert with the Contra Costa County Health Department; Fred Mayer, pharmacist and public health specialist and San Francisco attorney, John Kelley.

Taking issue with the barrage of alcoholic beverage advertising, the CFLA noted that liquor consumption is becoming more attractive to teenagers and even pre-teen youngsters who have turned away from drugs.

Noting that there are one million alcoholics in California alone, the CFLA intends to file petitions with federal regulatory agencies requiring strict honesty and fairness in all liquor advertising.

The panel is concerned that many ads appear to be building one'e self esteem through liquor consumption.

Using and keeping alcohol in quantity and the sex appeal of liquor is also stressed.

Births Up, Marriages Down in California

Births were up slightly in California during 1974, but the numbers of marriages decreased slightly over the previous year, the state's chief health officer says.

California has more women of childbearing age than ever before in its history, and the downward trend of births in the state may be reversing, Dr. William Mayer, state health director, said.

He said California's birthrate increased from 13.4 per cent per 1,000 persons in 1973 to 14.5 per cent in 1974.

That added up to 305000 live births, Mayer said in a report.

At the same time, he said, the state's death toll held even -- 173,000 per year.

California's birthrate peaked at 22 to 23 children per 1,000 population per year in the 1960s and began a sharp decline in 1970. The 1973 rate was the lowest since 1937, and Mayer said there may be significance in the slight increase in 1974.

"This may be the turnaround in births we've been expecting for some time," Mayer said.

"Women in the childbearing ages -- principallv those 18-25 -- who were born during the 1950s could be the reason for the upsurge. There were more women in this age range in 1974 than ever be.

DMV Crackdown on Bad Check Writers

The State Department of Motor Vehicles announced a crackdown yesterday on persons who write bad checks to pay for DMV services such as renewing vehicle registration.

DMV Director Robert Cozens said the department will charge a $5 service fee for handling dishonored checks.

Cozens said the department also will cancel a drivers license, void a vehicle registration or suspend any other DMV service which was paid for with a bad check, until the payment is made.

Cozens pointed out the number of bad checks received by the department has been increasing. In 1973, he said, the DMV received 24,000 such checks and through the first 11 months of last year the total had passed 27,000.

Blue Cross Rates Up

Rates for individual subscribers to Blue Cross rose an average of 19 per cent last week. A company spokesman said the increase was due to higher medical costs.

Blue Cross members enrolled through a group are not affected for the time being, but that may change later in the year according to official word.

The official said that medical care costs have risen 20 per cent since mid-1972, the last time individual subscriber rates went up.

WRITE ON TIME

NEW YORK CITY--In this crisis oriented world, that is vulnerable to any manner of antagonism, the year-end holiday season is a consoling pause in the march of time. Christmas, coming at the top of the period, is the world's most widely celebrated religious and social event. It is a montage of many customs, a moment in time which has bridged the generations from the 8th century. In other lands, cultures and languages, Santa Claus is known by names like "Pelznickle," "Tomten," "Sonner Klas," "Kris Kringle," "St Nicholas," and "Sunder Klaas." In every country the basic meaning is the same though the manner of reverence and greeting differs. To say "Merry Xmas" in France you say "Joyeux Noel," in Germany it's "Frohliche Weinachten,"in Italy it's "Buon Natale," and where Spanish is the mother tongue it's "Feliz Navidad." Yet they all have a common and universal meaning, "Peace on Earth, Goodwill Towards Mankind." This is the perfect way to end one time marker and move into the next for about it all is that fine enriching balance of peace and love. It is the one time in the year that you are greeted by all your true friends and admirers from throughout the world. It was interesting this Xmas that many friends added an extra to their "have a merry." They made donations to the United Negro College Fund, The Heart Association, The Cancer Fund and other worthy charities in the names of those they greeted. One of the most emotional times of our lives, the cards you receive are a reminder of those which did not come this time from those who are no longer involved in the struggles of living. We bow our heads in reverence to them and tip our hearts to those who still think enoughof friends to send wishes to a "Merry Xmas and a Happy New Year."

WRITE FROM FACTS---Dick Campbell, exec-dir Symphony of the New World, has touched bases with the Nat'l Music Council to make sure that his group is included in the fifty-odd concerts being planned for DeeCee's Kennedy Center as part of the upcoming Bicentennial observance...The long-lines division of AT&T has come up with another chore for Bill Russell. There are far fewer roles for women than men in teevee commercials. The type of roles available to them severely restricts their earnings, a Screen Actors Guild study indicates. It further points out that the representation of women and minorities in prime-time network TV programming is far lower than the proportions of these groups in American society. On the 3-networks, at the time of the monitoring, Blacks accounted for less than 6 per cent, Orientals, less than 2 per cent, Indians and Mexican-Americans, less than 1 per cent. Attitudes about TV was also a part of SAG's national fact-finding and it was discovered that the bulk of American viewers have a strong desire for positive changes in programming.....Ronald Charity has announced that there will be $56G's in college scholarships offered to the 15-finalists of his up-scheduled "Miss Black Teenage World Pageant."..Al Fann stars in the Bicentennial musical, "From This Time Forward," opening in DeeCee in mid-Feb after a preview performance at the Resident of the President...Howard Roberts, musical director of the award winning "Raisin," capped his '74 chores as conductor of the N.Y. Author Dies

Author Donald Goines is dead at 39. One of America's best read Black authors, with 13 published books to his credit was savagely gunned down in his Detroit apartment.

California's New Auto Insurance Law Starts

California's new compulsory automobile insurance law is now in effect, and motorists who drive without liability insurance are guilty of an infraction, according to Western Insurance Information Service (WIIS).

While the law, which became effective on January 1, provides other means by which a person may comply with the requirement of being "financiallyresponsible," it is, in effect, a compulsory insurance law and the vast majority of motorists will comply by carrying standard automobile liability insurance policies with bodily injury limits of at least $15,000 per person and $30,000 per accident plus property damage liability coverage of $5000.

The purpose of the new law, WIIS pointed out, is to protect the motoring public from those drivers who, when involved in an accident, are unable to show that they are financially responsible. Every driver and vehicle owner must meet the same provisions of the law.

The law requires that a report of any accident resulting in damage over $250 or resulting in bodily injury or death of any person be filed within 15 days after the accident. Failure to report may result in a driver's license suspension for one year or until the requirements are met.

Every driver involved must report and show prroof of financial responsibility regardless of fault.

If a driver involved in an accident doesn't have insurance (or meet the requirement in another way), he must then obtain required coverages, file proof with the Department of Motor Vehicles that he has it and maintain such proof for three years following the accident.

Additionally, WIIS points out, if a person drives or owns a car without meeting the law's requirements, he is guilty of an infraction nnd can be fined up to $100 and then must obtain insurance and follow the same procedure.

If these requirements are not met, the driver's license can be suspended and remain suspended for three years or until that person obtains insurance (or otherwise meets the requirements).

While an insurance policy is the most practical way to conform with the requirements set forth in the new law, proof of financial responsibility may be given also by depositing $35,000 in cash with the State Treasurer or by filing a surety bond in the amount of $35,000. Owners of more than 25 vehicles may qualify as self-insurers

Further details on California's new law are available from the Western Insurance Information Service in Santa Ana or San Francisco.

Angela Davis Files Lawsuit

Alameda County Sheriff Frank I. Madigan and one of his deputies at High Hospital are being sued by Angela Davis and a woman companion for $150,000 over detention of the two women at the hospital due to a parking dispute.

The lawsuit which was filed in Alameda County Superior Court by attorney Doris Brin Walker Wednesday, also names as a defendant Deputy Sheriff Dennis Raymond, the security guard at the hospital. Others named include Highland Hospital, the City of Oakland, Oakland Police chief George T. Hart and Assistant Sheriff Thomas Houchins.

The plaintiffs are Miss Davis and Victoria Mercado. They said they entered the hospital grounds on Sept. 12, for medical treatment at the hospital for Miss Davis's eye problem, and were unlawfully detained and imprisoned in a room for more than an hour, without a warrant and without cause.

Miss Davis said she was subjected to physical injury, shock and indignity, and wants $50,000 general damages, $50,000 exemplary damages and special damages for medical treatment and loss of earnings.

Miss Mercado made similar allegations, demanding general damages of $25,000 and exemplary damages of $25,000. Miss Davis filed a claim Sept. 19 against the city, county and hospital.

Miss Davis said then that she was handcuffed during the detention on Sept. 12, and suffered wrist injuries in addition to aggravation of the eye infection for which she has sought treatment at Highland.

Tunney, Cranston Win Delay In Oil Drilling Off Calif. Coast

By SENATOR JOHN V. TUNNEY

Senator Alan Cranston and I recently won what I consider a significant victory to delay the Interior Department's hasty plans for oil drilling off the California coast.

With Los Angeles City Attorney Burt Pines and Richard Maullin, the energy advisory to Governor-elect Brown, we persuaded Interior Secretary Robers C. B. Morton to postpone for two months hearings scheduled in Los Angeles on Interior's offshore leasing plans.

The delay will mean that local and state officials will have a chance to study adequately the environmental and coastline impact of resumed oil production.

Without the delay, the Interior Department's massive two thousand page plus environmental impact document would probably have gone unchallenged.

The victory, however, was a victory in a skirmish. We still have a long way to go in the battle to hold off Interior and the major oil companies from precipitous and massive oil grab off our coast.

Why do I call it an oil grab?

Because of the Interior Department's pell mell rush to lease vast acreage for oil production while paying only the scantest attention to environmental considerations and the orderly development of our coastline.

Last fall, I held hearings for the National Oceans Policy Study of the Senate into Interior's plans to develop additional offshore lands for oil and gas production.

Officials stated at the hearings that no decision had been made on new offshore leasing, nor would a decision be made until next summer

But less than a week later an internal Interior Department memorandum surfaced that told of "firm plans" to lease ten million offshore acres in 1975. The plans called for leasing off both the Northern and Southern California costs.

It was the classic bureaucratic shellgame: One official publicly saying no decision had been made, while firm plans were moving ahead within the Department.

Why the haste? I believe it is because Interior and big oil want to move quickly ahead before environmental questions are thoroughly answered.

I have introduced a resolution in the Senate, which now has 26 co-sponsors, that calls for delay in leasing until coastal development plans are complete and until the National Academy of Sciences has studied the environmental impact of new production.

The memory is still fresh for most of us of the Santa Barbara oil spill. We must be assured that no similar environmental disaster is permitted to occur again.

Beyond that, we must protect the coastline against unwise development. For renewed offshore production entails much more than sinking a shaft into the ocean floor. It means oil pipelines, refineries on shore, tank farms, new roads, distribution systems -- all, in the case of California, in areas susceptible to earthquakes.

I believe it is imperative that any such development -- on shore as well as off -- take place in harmony with the development plan now being completed by the California Coastline Commission.

Does this mean that I am unalterably opposed to offshore oil recovery?

Of course not. Given the already severe fuel shortage, it would be foolish to insist that these vast offshore reserves remain forever untapped.

But we can insist that they are tapped safely, in accordance with out coastal development plans, and with thorough consultation with local, state and regional officials.

The recent meeting with Secretary Morton was the first tangible sign that the Interior Department may be willing to listen to voices other than those of big oil.

I believe Morton delayed the hearings not only because our delegation officially requested him to do so, but because he is aware of the groundswell of public opinion in California favoring delay.

To win the war as well as the skirmish, the groundswell will have to continue.

New One-Page Notice

Acting Sheriff David B. Cook today announced that the Monterey County Sheriff's Department has prepared, for distribution, a one-page Notice concerning garnishment procedures. This notice informs employers of the new method of responding to a logal wage garnishment should any of their employees be involved, and they in turn be served in this type of civil litigation. The new procedures are necessary because of the Federal Minimum Wage increase to two dollars ten cents ($2.10) an hour effective January 1, 1975.

Acting Sheriff Cook stated that his deputies will include the revised Notice with each wage garnishment they serve.
